New wines

Our aim is never to have an extensive selection of wines, but rather to offer a select list that demonstrates above all authenticity and value for money. Recently we have tasted and enjoyed the following new wines that we are proud to add to the Vino list.

Madregale, Colline Teatine, Abruzzo

This simple pair of IGTs serve as something of our Vino house wines, the rosso made from the punchy Montepulciano grape, with plenty of deep fruit flavours, yet light and never heavy; the bianco surprisingly from Chardonnay, fresh, with an Abruzzese accent. These are excellent, well made wines to enjoy in quantity with simple foods and in the company of friends.

Badia di Morrone, Valdera, Tuscany

Our relationship with the Badia di Morrone has come from developing strong personal links with friends in the Valdera zone of Tuscany (inland from Pisa) through the continued work to twin Tuscany and Devon as food regions. The wines from this corner of Tuscany are less well known than from other areas but they are very high quality indeed. This is one of the leading estates – I urge you to try these wines!

Poggio Argentera, Maremma, Tuscany

Morellino is the local name from Sangiovese grapes grown in the province of Grosseto around the wine town of Scansano – source of juicy, fleshy wines that are more generous than their leaner cousins in the Chianti Classico and elsewhere. I love Morellino di Scansano and this is a great, vivid, fresh example.

OUR CLASSICS

Cascina Fontana, Barolo, Piedmont

Hand-crafted wines by our great friend Mario Fontana. Unfiltered and made with as minimal interference as possible, Mario's wines are authentic and faithful expressions of the wine country of Le Langhe.

Azienda Agricola Fratelli Politi, Le Marche

Giuditta Politi makes one of the best Verdicchio's you will ever taste – full in body, richly textured, clean, unoaked and powerful. Giuditta was formerly a molecular geneticist before taking over her family estate, and her wines are made with both scientific precision and also passion and respect for the territorio. Loretello is a truly great white wine that we are proud to import exclusively.
